Differences Between Citing the Diary and the Play

The diary and the play, while intimately connected, serve different purposes and thus require nuanced citation approaches.

The Diary as Primary Source

Anne Frank’s diary is a firsthand historical document, offering raw insights into her experiences during World War II. When cited in academic research, it should be treated as a primary source. This involves referencing specific diary entries, editions, and translations, which can differ in wording and presentation.

The Play as Interpretative Work

The theatrical adaptation by Goodrich and Hackett is a creative interpretation, dramatizing and selecting elements from the diary to tell a compelling stage narrative. This adaptation introduces dialogue, stage directions, and character development that go beyond the original text. Therefore, citing the play acknowledges the creative contributions of the playwrights and the context of its dramatic presentation.

Implications for Educators and Performers

Educators who assign readings or performances of the play should clarify which text they expect to be cited. This prevents ambiguity in assignments and ensures students understand the difference between historical documentation and artistic adaptation. Likewise, theater companies producing the play must secure rights and provide appropriate attribution in their programs and promotional materials.

Challenges and Controversies in Citation

Accurate citation of “The Diary of Anne Frank” play is not without its challenges. Several factors complicate the process:

1. Multiple Adaptations: Since its debut, various versions and adaptations of the play have been produced globally, sometimes with significant textual changes.
2. Translation Variations: Different languages and translators affect how the text is presented, impacting citation details.
3. Copyright and Permissions: Due to the sensitive nature of the content and the rights held by Anne Frank Fonds and theatrical rights holders, legal considerations can affect how citations and reproductions are handled.

These challenges highlight the necessity of consulting authoritative sources and adhering to the guidelines provided by publishers and rights holders when citing or quoting from the play.

Comparing Citation Styles for the Play

Different citation styles (APA, MLA, Chicago) have distinct formats for plays and adaptations, which can influence how the play is referenced in academic papers or reviews. For instance:

1. MLA: Emphasizes the authors and the title of the play, followed by the publisher and date.
2. APA: Focuses on the playwrights and the year of the play’s publication or performance, including the source of the text.
3. Chicago: Allows for more detailed notes, often including production details or contextual commentary.

Selecting the appropriate style depends on the audience and purpose of the citation.
